Radio Scotland

B/W
BLUE NOSE

Recorded by

THE CARRICK FOLK FOUR

Thistle Records. 79 Berkeley Street, Glasgow.
Radio Scotland

She swings at anchor in the Firth of Clyde, 5 miles off Troon, Ayrshire, this lusty infant of the air-waves, known as "Radio Scotland," "Station 242," or "The Big S," according to one's degree of with-it-ness.

To the government, she is a "pirate" or unauthorised off-shore radio station, destined to be scuttled by new legislation currently being framed and designed to end what Whitehall refers to as "illegal" broadcasting.

But to 2-and-a-half million listeners in Scotland, Northern Ireland and North West England, she is the "Sunshine Station," whose slickly-presented programmes of "pop" and Scottish music have become so much of a daily necessity that they have signed a petition to keep her on the air.

Since Hogmanay, 1965, Radio Scotland's disc-jockeys have built up a huge following and given the Scottish record industry — previously hampered by the lack of a powerful exploitation outlet — a chance to display its wares.

We hope this recording, by the talented Carrick Folk Four, will be a valuable aid in the station's struggle for survival. The group, formed less than a year ago, have been widely tipped for nation-wide popularity in the folk music field. Their youthful zest and obvious delight in their work comes over instantly on disc and with two highly-commercial "singles" under their belts, they are now looking forward to the release of their first Scottish Folk E.P.

THISTLE RECORDS, 79 BERKELEY STREET, GLASGOW.
Telephone: CEN. 8696

Printed by: GRAFTON PRINTING CO., 43 Stonelaw Road, Rutherglen.
Radio Scotland

She swings at anchor in the Firth of Clyde, 5 miles off Troon, Ayrshire, this lusty infant of the air-waves, known as "Radio Scotland," "Station 242," or "The Big S," according to one's degree of with-it-ness.

To the government, she is a "pirate" or unauthorised off-shore radio station, destined to be scuttled by new legislation currently being framed and designed to end what Whitehall refers to as "illegal" broadcasting.

But to 2-and-a-half million listeners in Scotland, Northern Ireland and North West England, she is the "Sunshine Station," whose slickly-presented programmes of "pop" and Scottish music have become so much of a daily necessity that they have signed a petition to keep her on the air.

Since Hogmanay, 1965, Radio Scotland's disc-jockeys have built up a huge following and given the Scottish record industry — previously hampered by the lack of a powerful exploitation outlet — a chance to display its wares.

We hope this recording, by the talented Carrick Folk Four, will be a valuable aid in the station's struggle for survival. The group, formed less than a year ago, have been widely tipped for nation-wide popularity in the folk music field. Their youthful zest and obvious delight in their work comes over instantly on disc and with two highly-commercial "singles" under their belts, they are now looking forward to the release of their first Scottish Folk E.P.

THISTLE RECORDS, 79 BERKELEY STREET, GLASGOW.
Telephone: CEN. 8696

Printed by: GRAFTON PRINTING CO., 43 Stonelaw Road, Rutherglen.
RADIO SCOTLAND
(george Stevenson)
THE CARRICK FOLK FOUR
Made in scotland
Radio Scotland
(George Stevenson)
The Carrick Folk Four
Made in Scotland
BLUE NOSE
(Dave Martins)
THE CARRICK FOLK FOUR
MADE IN SCOTLAND
THISTLE RECORDS

THISTLE MAKE YOU LISTEN

RADIO SCOTLAND
(George Stevenson)
THE CARRICK FOLK FOUR

MADE IN SCOTLAND